5:35

BB

Bill >

centre or violence. Also worried about creating public expectations and police have no op plan to enforce yet. Wants money to compensate people and businesses harmed as well as offset direct costs; told him that we are willing to talk about the latter, but the former is a whole other thing. Clarified that the city has not talked to the province at all, other than via OPP. Encouraged him to do so in terms of creating incentives, e.g. demerit points and impact on re-licensing of drivers. Agreed we will keep in touch.

This is from rob Stewart

Thu, Feb 3, 12:50 PM

PMOs constrIirtatiom is how does this end and the officials who are talking to Ottawa aren't sharing

s.38 s.39

iMessage